Questions on an Indeed application for a Thrift Shop.. Wasn't sure what to put, so I exited the application

What do you believe about the Trinity as it relates to the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit?

What do you believe about the Bible?

For example: It's the unchanging truth for all people, or it's a record of religion from a certain time and culture, or state in your own words what you believe about the Bible.

What do you believe the Bible says about homosexuality and how the Bible defines/views gender identity?

Do you agree or disagree with what the Bible says about homosexuality and gender identity?

To be fair, a lot of people are atheists because of their exposure to the Bible/religion.

Religious schools are the best producers of anti religious people. Ask anyone who went to Catholic school how they feel about it as an adult. I wouldn't want to work in a place that asked this bullshit. I highly doubt it has great pay and/or benefits. Better they let everyone know they're fruitcakes before you show up expecting a good place to work.

Does the bible say anything about gender identity?

Several people are saying that the Bible doesn't say anything about gender identity, but that's not true. It's mentioned in several places. Here's one example from Galatians 3:28

It actually does, though not in the way these bigots think. Ancient Judaism discusses 6-8 genders, with discussions in the Talmud mostly relating to which male rituals and which female rituals non-binary people should follow.

I'm not arguing that ancient Judaism was ahead of the curve on gender (I'm sure modern eyes would see a lot problematic with its regimentation), more that modern society is behind the curve. Non-binary people have existed for as long as gender as a construct has existed, and the idea that they are a modern invention is a fiction that has been told to us.

They make their entire bigotry hinged on a yucky feeling they have and a stupid passage that says men shouldn't cross-dress (which trans people aren't doing anyway). Unsurprisingly the bible doesn't really give a shit.

3 and 4, same answer "I believe that it is written in the Bible that Jesus said the he formed a new covenant with mankind that replaced the rules of the Old Testament, that we are all sinners undeserving of salvation and that only through Him and His sacrifice may any of us enter the kingdom of heaven. Since Jesus said nothing about either homosexuality or gender identity, it follows that the new covenant doesn't really care about either."

You don't have to be a Christian to believe that something is written in the Bible or to perform literary analysis.

207 Share ...

detectivelonglegs · 7 mo. ago

Fun fact, even in the Old Testament there is nothing about homosexuality (and likely also gender identity, no one gave a shit about that back then??)

The current 1983 translation is "Man shall not lie with man, for it is an abomination," while the original translation was actually "Man shall not lie with young boys as he does with a woman, for it is an abomination."

The church didn't like being told not to touch little kids, so they changed it to shame the gay community instead.

The trinity is always equal parts. Most important thing is getting your cast iron skillet up to temp with some oil before adding the onions, bell peppers, and celery. Then add some salt/pepper. Stir till they start cooking down. Then you got the start to some good recipes.

For #3, make sure to put that if you still follow the laws of Leviticus then you believe that Jesus is not the Messiah, because according to basic Christian theology Jesus' sacrifice negated the laws of the Old testament and created a.....new testament.

Actually, I'd love to know the link so that I can apply and provide even more context for them.

10 Share ...

You're welcome to try these answers if you like:

1. The doctrine of Trinity derives from a third-century theological excursion, the Athanasian Creed.
2. The Bible is a curated collection of the utterings of various schizophrenia sufferers and amateur historians, written from memory, heavily edited, and freely rewritten as befit the political objectives of various monarchs, leaders of churches, etc over the centuries. It is in no sense the "word of God".
3. The Bible says nothing about homosexuality. The word "arsenokoitai" was mistranslated from Greek; it refers not to same-sex attracted adults, rather to child molesters, a class of criminal endemic within organized religion. It is no surprise that the luminaries of organized religion would have directed that such an edit be made, in order to redirect the ire of the credulous from their own sin towards another. As to "gender identity", no author of the Bible had the vaguest understanding of chromosomal genetics, hence this is not a concept

Hi! I'm a Catholic, so I figured I'd point out that, from what I've been taught, God's stance on the gender binary is that it shouldn't, and technically doesn't, exist. Proof:

Galatians 3:28 "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female, for ye are all one in Christ Jesus"

Do with this information what you will 😊

I manage/operate a church charity thrift shop; if these questions had been on my application, I would have run faster than a frog's tongue flickering through a flock of flies. This application alone raises all sorts of red flags for me; am I going to have to "interview" people who hope to get help from my shop? Say that same-sex couple has a house fire - can I have them shop for free for their necessities or do I reject their request due to their sexual preferences? Is it up to me to decide who's "deserving"? FWIW, yes, my little shop is run "by a church" but there's not ONE volunteer FROM said church (they're all "too busy"). My volunteers come from the surrounding community, and it helps that the UCC (United Church of Christ) is one of the two VERY liberal denominations of christianity (Unitarians being the other). FWIW, my views are secular humanist; you DON'T NEED RELIGION TO BE A GOOD PERSON!

A number of years ago I met a guy at a festival. Goth sort of punk looking, mostly naked, shaved head, huge tattoo covers his whole back with a giant Baphomet and 666.

Chatting with him, he mentions how he loves these events because in real life he has to do the suit and tie thing every day.

He works for Catholic Charities.

1. the Trinity is a fictional character in the Matrix franchise. She is portrayed by Carrie-Anne Moss in the films. Like the series' other main characters, Trinity is a computer programmer and a hacker who has escaped from the Matrix, a sophisticated computer program where most humans are imprisoned. Though few specifics are revealed about her previous life inside the Matrix, it is told that she cracked a database so secure that she is famous among hackers, and that Morpheus, one of a number of real-world hovercraft commanders, initially identified her and helped her escape from the program. At the beginning of the series, she is first mate on Morpheus' Nebuchadnezzar and serves mainly as a go-between for him and the individuals he wishes to free from the Matrix. As the series progresses, her primary importance as a character becomes her close relationship with Neo. She is skilled with computers, at operating vehicles both inside and outside the Matrix, and in martial arts.
2. The Holy Bible is the third studio album by Welsh alternative rock band Manic Street Preachers. It was released on 30 August 1994 by record label Epic. My favorite song from this album is the second track called "IfWhiteAmericaToldTheTruthForOneDayIt'sWorldWouldFallApart". The second to the last track called "the Intense Humming of Evil" comes in as a close second.
3. a listen of the Manic Street Preachers album "the Holy Bible" tries to give a voice to all marginalized groups, and teaches the evils of religion, which I do

I almost want to apply here to have fun answering the questions. To the first question: I believe it's part of the Christian mythos.

To the second question: it's a book of myths from a particular era of middle eastern culture and it's stories and values very much reflect the ideology of the time. You can even see, from the earliest writings to the latest, how concepts of morality and right and wrong have evolved with the changing cultures they were written in.

To the third: The Bible does espouse very strict gender roles, and there are some, though not many, references in the Bible opposed to same sex relations. This is a common tactic in a group that's trying to gain tight control over a population, since whenever you have strict, predefined roles for different groups within your society, it's easier to manipulate the group because you only have to tailor your messaging to a very limited number of 'types' of people.

To the fourth: I'm opposed to fascism and totalitarian control over a population and I feel if someone's behaviors are not harmful to anyone, they should be

1. I believe that the Trinity is a polytheistic violation of the first commandment.
2. I believe that the early books of the Bible were probably produced in the Kingdom of Judah (after the fall of Israel) to combine the mythologies of the two kingdoms. I also believe that other than the first 7 letters of Paul and possibly the 3 synoptic gospels, the NT is a collection of forgeries.
3. The part of the Bible that matter - the post-Exilic literature, the (mostly authentic) letters of Paul, and the three synoptic gospels say nothing I'm aware of about homosexuality or gender identity

I was DISCRIMINATED against on the grounds of religion, but it's completely fine because they are a religious school (it was for an IT position),. It goes completely against their own teachings to discriminate against people and against their "love everyone" crap they teach.

In my country you cannot discriminate based on sex, age or religion, but they can because they are a religious school.

Pathetic.

Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibits employers from discriminating against individuals because of their religion (or lack of religious belief) in hiring, firing, or any other terms and conditions of employment. The law also prohibits job segregation based on religion, such as assigning an employee to a non-customer contact position because of actual or feared customer preference.

Mandatory that I respect every persons right to believe what they want, But if a company forced their beliefs onto me as a potential candidate I'd awnser as follows, Yes I grew up religious but turned my back on it many many years ago.

1. The trinity is basically an oxymoron, as all 3 parts are interchangeable, different and the same all at once.
2. Which Bible do you refeer to? The Catholic, Luthetan, Orthodox etc. Etc. Are we talking the bible before the European conquests or after? Do we include the red sea scrolls or not?
3. The bible in any form doesn't say much about homosexuality and gender identity, However it does say alot about heterosexual relationships. Such as a man or woman who are unfaithful should be dragged to the front of their parents house and stoned. Come to think of it your company by 99% certainty are breaking at least 5 different passages of the bible.
4. Since the bible technically doesn't say anything about above mentioned subject, There is nothing to agree or disagree with.
